Rocket says look up!

By Nathan Bryon, illustrated by Dapo Adeola

Published by Puffin £6.99 (p/b)

Age range: Three – seven years old

Description

Meet Rocket--a plucky aspiring astronaut intent on getting her community to LOOK UP! from what they're doing and reach for the stars.

A comet will be visible tonight, and Rocket wants everyone to see it with her--even her big brother, Jamal, whose attention is usually on his phone or video games. Rocket's enthusiasm brings neighbours and family together to witness a once-in-a-lifetime sighting.

Bursting with energy and passion about science and space, this heart-warming, inspirational picture book will have readers turning off their screens and switching on to the outside world.

Reviews

“Ideal for space or science-inclined readers, this book includes information about scientist Jemison and a short list of facts about meteors and comets enclosed in an embrace of family relationships and a child’s joy in the world around her.” —School Library Journal

“The sweet, uncomplicated story for young space lovers is peppered with interesting facts about meteors and Mae Jemison, and has bright, colourful, humorous illustrations that subtly but deliberately represent a vibrant, multi-ethnic, multicultural neighbourhood engaging in a community event.” —Booklist
